What is corona virus? It is a virus which is spreads physically to one person to another and cause fever. Corona virus has affected the world in many ways. Its impact can be seen in world's every sector ranging to economic to politics to international relation etc.

It has even affected the Educational Department in many ways. More than half of the countries in the world have closed their schools thinking that the virus would spread in the schools. Only 48 countries' school are currently open. The impact of virus has affected the student's studies in many ways. Some of the problems are as follow

(i) It has interrupted the studies of students. Formal education for children is very important. The interruption of formal education during this grade will result a 67% loss of literacy ability in kindergarten children.

(ii) Online education has become a essential part of student's life. But online education can be afforded by only well off households. So the students from disadvantaged family and poor family cannot afford it which becomes a huge problem.

(iii) Students from far off places has been affected most. Students cannot afford to watch online classes and because of which students could not learn anything.

During this time in pandemic, Government has taken make steps to provide online leaning to every student. Government has started online classes in television and radio. They have scheduled time for different subject for different classes. Now the only thing left do for government is to provide a television or radio in every house. Now it's the duty of the students to concentrate on studies and take advantage of this online classes provided by the government.

Impact Of Covid 19

The Impact of Corona Virus can be seen across the world . A section of people that corona has harmed the most is the school going children. School closure negatively impact students learning outcomes. Schooling provides essential learning and when school closed, children and youth are deprived of opportunities for growth and development. Although the Government has decided to conduct online classes, students who reside in rural areas lack facilities and are also ignorant of modern gadgets. On the other hand urban students suffer poor internet service. Lock down has barred the students from taking part actively on co-curricular activities like taking parts in literally competitions and sports. Students miss the company of their friends, presence of their teachers, and day today activities of the school. Now-a-days the children are too much engaged in their cell phones and computers that they forget about the world outside.
